oneclick starts Distribution via ALSO Germany

In January, a joint cloud workshop with partners marked the official cooperation start between ALSO and oneclick. The two companies already signed a distribution contract last autumn.

oneclick AG, the vendor of the web-based Application Delivery and Streaming Platform of the same name, participated in a cloud workshop for interested partners of ALSO. In addition to the Application Delivery Platform, the ALSO Cloud Marketplace was presented as well as sample contracts for cloud services, developed jointly between the ALSO Network and ALSO solicitor Carola Sieling.

We already had a great deal of interest in the run up to the event and all available places were booked up by around 15 partners. "The workshop was a full success", explains York Karsten, who as product manager at ALSO is responsible for the Microsoft Azure business. "Our solution was met with great interest. We were able to agree concrete steps for future cooperation immediately with some participants", adds a delighted oneclick CEO Dominik Birgelen.

"The inclusion of oneclick™ in our ALSO Cloud Marketplace enables our partners to depict hybrid structures. Now, our cloud services offer can be complemented with any application hosted on-premises. Software vendors and systems integrators enable any native application for the cloud, using oneclick™. oneclick™ even looks after automated provisioning", says Michael Gericks, Head of Digital Services at ALSO Germany.
