oneclick AG participates in the Alliance for Cyber Security

Every day, organisations find themselves exposed to cyber attacks. Following an initiative of the German Federal Office for Information Security Technology (BSI) and the German Association for Information Technology, Telecommunications and New Media (Bitkom), the Alliance for Cyber Security was formed in 2012 to take counter measures. To date, 2,049 organisations, over 96 active partners and more than 45 multipliers participate in this alliance.

The objective of the alliance is to increase cyber security in Germany and strengthen the resilience of the business location Germany against cyber attacks. In order to achieve this, IT security competencies are to be developed further in German organisations.

As part of the alliance, BSI works closely with partners and multipliers to jointly increase cyber security. "For us, the advantages of the cooperation with the Alliance for Cyber Security are access to daily updates regarding the current position on cyber threats", explains Mathias Meinke, CTO of oneclick AG. "We receive important background information and useful solution ideas for safety measures. In addition, there is also a continued experience exchange with other experts."

oneclick AG joined the Alliance through its German subsidiary OC Development GmbH. oneclick develops and operates an Application Delivery and Streaming Platform, which is available as a service. It allows the delivery of applications and desktops for the user as a stream in a central, 100% web-based workspace from any server location. The oneclick™ platform supports companies to increase mobility, productivity and security.
