Anovis and oneclick: a strong Partnership for secure Remote Access

Cyber attacks on enterprise networks increase daily. At the same time, demand grows for constant availability of applications and data. Employees, customers and partner want to access their required environment from anywhere and with any device. It is often an impossible task for organisations to protect their own network securely from attacks and, at the same time, guarantee unlimited mobility.

The oneclick™ Application Delivery and Streaming Platform offers a multi-award winning solution. Immediately available to use, oneclick™ is a Platform-as-a-Service for simple, fast and secure remote access. Applications and data can be streamed via the platform from any server location in a central workspace in the browser. The clever thing about this is that oneclick™ does not have to install software components or plug-ins on servers and devices.

oneclick™ already includes all the components of a DMZ, hence a firewall is sufficient to secure a local server location. This is where IT security specialist Anovis comes into play. Anovis provides and supports Next Generation Firewalls for the highly secure connection of an enterprise network to the oneclick™ platform. As part of "Managed Connectivity and Security", the customer no longer needs to look after anything. Anovis organises the delivery, the start-up and continued monitoring of the appliance.
