"A perfect match to our portfolio, the oneclick™ platform will help us achieve this objective."

Applications and data can be provided as a stream from any server location in a central workspace in the browser using oneclick™. Thanks to oneclick™, an operational IT environment is ready-to-use in a few minutes as a new and simple form of deployment and delivery of applications and data. "NETGO's close connection with its own and managed systems integrators as well as their own, large data centre operation, is a useful addition to our proven distribution environment", summarises Dominik Birgelen, CEO of oneclick AG. "We tap into a new target audience using NETGO and will continuously receive valuable feedback directly from users regarding their needs for the development of our platform and services."

The two companies met through systems integrator association kiwiko eG. Kiwiko is an interest group of independent IT systems integrators. NETGO and oneclick are both members or technology partners.
