oneclick recognised as a Microsoft Authorized Education Partner

oneclick, provider of a digital workspace platform, has today announced that it has been selected to become a Microsoft Authorized Education Partner (AEP), which will allow system integrators to purchase Microsoft products from oneclick and resell them to its educational customers at a discounted cost.

Microsoft's AEP program is designed to train resellers on Microsoft's Academic licensing, whilst authorising selected businesses to purchase and resell Microsoft Academic licenses and demonstrate that they are approved and knowledgeable academic partners. Microsoft's software helps students and teachers realise their full potential through the access of creative information and communication technology.

The AEP certificate demonstrates that oneclick possesses the necessary skills to serve its customers in the best possible way, whilst having a decisive advantage over its competitors.

"Our recognition within the Microsoft Authorized Education Partnership demonstrates our commitment to meet the needs of our system integrator partners operating in the education channel," comments Dominik Birgelen, CEO and co-founder of oneclick. "Combining the Authorized Education Partnership with our expertise to deploy and manage Azure VMs easily, quickly, and securely oneclick can provide an efficient and complete cloud-based infrastructure to deploy most technology-based teaching in a classroom setup."

As a Microsoft AEP, oneclick will be able to continue to achieve its main goal of providing an innovative technology platform for its partners who can streamline their IT provisions for customers. As a result, oneclick partners are able to provide a more productive and secure offering, whilst providing its educational customers with more accessible software. Everything which is needed to set up and access oneclick's digital workspaces are a browser and internet access.
